

World Jewish Congress
Communications Intern

The World Jewish Congress (WJC) is the international organization representing over 100 Jewish communities and organizations around the world. It advocates on their behalf toward governments, parliaments, international organizations and other faiths. The WJC represents the plurality of the Jewish people and is politically non-partisan.

This internship opportunity is best fitted to those individuals interested in Holocaust education and how Jewish organizations can approach such issues. An intern interested in creative problem solving, data analytics and web design will thrive in such a position. Position will entail both independent work and assisting with team projects as needed.

Internship Description:

Intern will assist with general tasks within the Communications department, writing stories for the website, researching news items, shadowing staff, and learning the basics of how communications operate. In addition to facilitating projects as needed, Intern will particularly focus on expanding and improving digital projects.

As WJC broadens the reach of these projects, intern will focus on analyzing existing networks within the sporting world and evaluate opportunities for growth.

Qualifications

- Strong oral and written communication skills in English are required.
- Research abilities and data analysis.
- Familiar with web design and developing content.
- Proficient in Canva

Terms and conditions:

- The internship position is paid. Students should check with their academic institution to see if they are able to gain academic credit for their internship with the World Jewish Congress.
- Start date: June 21 (Flexible)
- Duration: Minimum of 3 months

The World Jewish Congress is an equal opportunity employer.

Applications can be submitted through this link.

CV & Motivation Letter are required for all applicants.